

This Free E-Book is brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!

What Is A Cosmetic Contact Lens And What's It Used For?

By Gray Rollins

Cosmetic contact lenses are a professional beauty secret that is hitting the mainstream. For years, stylists have given fashion models, actors, and actresses colored contact lenses to enhance or obscure natural eye color for striking visual effects. Rumors often abound about whether the stunning shade of a young starlet's eyes is natural or not, but regardless of whether the It-girl of the moment was born with those baby blues it is safe to say that colored contact lenses are a powerful beauty tool.

Many of the people who opt for colored contacts have light colored eyes but are looking for a little bit of extra power. If you want to give your baby blues a little bit of extra zip, or want to give your light green eyes a bit of special luster, consider looking into contacts that have an enhancement tint.

Enhancement tints are translucent, so they capture the complexity and natural variation of your eye's appearance while adding a little bit of extra color.

Actors and actresses often find themselves cast in roles that require a total switch in eye color. For these kinds of drastic changes, only contacts with a full color tint can do the job. With an opaque color tint, you can turn your dark hazel eyes to a pale, dreamy gray. You can even swap your commonplace dark brown color for an attention getting shade of amethyst or violet. Whether you are looking to transform for a feature film, for a special event like a prom, or just to add a little something out of the ordinary to a regular night on the town, a contact with a color tint can do the job.

Color contact lenses certainly look great, but in some cases they may not be so great to look through. The center of any colored contact lens is clear, which allows your pupil free, unfiltered access to light and images. However, slight vision problems can occur if your pupil is larger than the center of the lens. Because pupils are constantly growing and shrinking in size so that you can see equally well in situations where there are varied levels of light, there is no way to size a colored contact so that you can be certain that your pupil will never be partially covered by the tint. For this reason, make sure that you have worn your contacts several times to determine whether they obscure your ability to see before you attempt any potentially dangerous activity, such as driving at night.

Gray Rollins is a featured writer for GotContactLenses. To learn more about contact lenses, visit us at

What Is A Cosmetic Contact Lens And What's It Used For?

<http://www.gotcontactlenses.com/>

and

<http://www.gotcontactlenses.com/colored/>

The Colored Contact Lenses For Fashion

By Burt Cotton

Teens love to dress up and look trendy. They experiment with the hair style, nail color, hair color, tattoos and so on, all in the search of 'perfection' as they define it. I use the phrase, "as they define it" here, because what the teenager thinks and feels is right, is most of the time, the most grotesque solution for us, the adults. However, in the matter of cosmetic contact lens, this is a safe way to expressive oneself and one which is not frowned upon anywhere.

The Psychology of the Cosmetic Contact Lens

The cosmetic contact lens can change the look quite dramatically, in a cost effective way, and thereby boost your self-image and feel-good factor. Teenagers, being as touchy as they are, with the way they look and the way you look at them, feel great when they wear cosmetic contact lens to improve their looks. Most of the time, they like what they see in the mirror and hence it helps a lot in the painful transition from teenager to adult.

Choice

For those who want to use the cosmetic contact lens there is a wide variety of choices today on the market. You get leading brands offering great discounts, sales and introductory offers; you get different types of color lenses and you also get these at different costs. In order to choose what is best for you, you should first have a good knowledge base on what types of lenses exist on the market.

There are the hard contact lenses, the semi soft and the soft contact lenses. It has always been seen that the semi-soft contacts are the best bet, both concerning the budget as well as comfort.

Strategy

Your decision should be based on a few strategic factors:

- * How comfortable it is for wearing it for the first time - some people prefer to go directly to wearing soft lenses, though it is recommended that you work on it gradually
- * Which brands are the most trusted in the market - always go for the best and well known brands available; do not take any chances with your eyes. There were instances when people lost their vision due to infections that started due to cheap contact lenses

What Is A Cosmetic Contact Lens And What's It Used For?

* What number is your eye-sight; or in other words, do you need power to your contacts - always check with your ophthalmologist before you change from your specs to contacts

* Do you want them tinted - it is possible, though not advisable, since it will be difficult for you to see in the dark (night time) if your lenses are tinted.

Try to have as much fun in choosing them as wearing them.

Burt Cotton

<http://www.colored-contact.org>

This Free E-Book has been brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!