What Is Your Motivation To Be Successful? by Gordon Bellows

Although this article was originally intended for people who want to be successful in a home-based business, the main concept can be applied to all areas of our lives. In order to be successful, there should be some sort of motivation that is a driving force in helping you to reach your goal.

Let's start by looking at what motivation means. We separate the word motivation into two parts; m-o-t-i-v and a-t-i-o-n. When we add the letter e to the end of the first part and the letter c to the second space of the second part, we get motive and action. Motivation simply means a motive to take action.

You might want to make more money, improve your lifestyle, or do any number of things that your daydreams are filled with. By looking closely at what you want, you begin to understand the real reason you want it. That becomes your motive, which helps you to be more prepared to take action.

It is better to be motivated by positive emotions rather than negative emotions. If you want to quit your job because you don't like the boss and you hate the long commute, those are negative emotions. However, if you want to quit your job so you can be self-employed and to spend more time at home with your children, those are positive emotions.

Doing something for reasons that have positive emotions is more conducive to your success than doing it for reasons that have negative emotions.

What Is Your Motivation To Be Successful?

If you want to make more money (and who doesn't?) what is your reason for wanting more money? Do you want it so you can show off with fancy clothes and a new car? Or, do you want it so you can afford those nice things, because you worked hard to achieve your success, and you want to enjoy the fruits of your labor? I hope you see that the first reason is full of greed and an attitude of being better than others, which are the wrong kinds of emotions. On the other hand, the second reason is better, but it should only be part of the reason for wanting to make more money.

When you have a purpose besides attaining material things as a motive for wanting to make more money, you are getting on the right track. Other motives could include providing a better education for your children, taking care of your aging parents, establishing a scholarship fund in the name of a loved one, sponsoring underprivileged children at a summer camp, and donating to various charities. These motives have a higher purpose; they go beyond our own selfishness.

By helping others, we get more than we give. It leads us to a higher level of personal fulfillment. It also seems to open up paths to greater success. It is hard to explain, but the idea that a person who helps others will be richly rewarded is something that really happens.

A good home-based business might be the best chance for the average person to become wealthy. However, many people give up too early and never realize the success they had dreamed of. Sometimes, not reaching a goal is just a lack of solid motives. Along with believing in yourself and what you are doing, the right motivation is a powerful driving force that can help you to hang in there and keep you moving toward your goal.

Imagine A Powerful Energizing Motivation Pill To Get You Almost Anything You Want In Life

By Noel Peebles

If you don't know what you want and why you want it, how can you make a realistic plan to get it?

What Is Your Motivation To Be Successful?

Easy! Take the energizing "motivation" pill. It will clarify your thinking, boost your creativity and improve your focus. And that's just the beginning; it will increase your productivity, stimulate you mentally and uplift you emotionally.

No, this is not some illegal substance, or even a new breakthrough in medical science.

It is something that has been around for centuries and is used by successful athletes, entrepreneurs and people from all walks of life.

The energizing "motivation" pill is made from a special formula to make you brighter, happier and healthier. It's a powerful preparation for success.

What's in this formula and how does it work?

It's simple – the "motivation" pill is a blend of these special ingredients: the force of discontent with things as they are, combined with the power of hope for things as they might be. Mix these positive and negative ingredients together and you'll have the motivation to take action. It's that easy!

A closer look at the formula reveals –

Negative Ingredient: The Force Of Discontent

Discontent can lead to frustration and anxiety. Frustration with things as they are... a feeling of powerlessness, anxiety, depression and lethargy. It's when your goals become more distant, or unrealistic in your current circumstances. Your discontent and dissatisfaction with things as they are inspires you to do something to change the situation. This discontent triggers the motivation to take action.

Positive Ingredient: The Power Of Hope

The power of hope is when you know you can have what you want. You know it is possible... you know that if you really want it, you can achieve it. This belief gives you hope. The power of hope leads to motivation and action. And, in my experience, staying motivated is much easier when you enjoy what you are doing.

Here's another interesting fact; when you improve your skills and develop your thinking capacity, you become more valuable to yourself and to others. Investment in yourself is an asset that will pay dividends throughout your life. In short, having useful skills will make you feel good about yourself!

What Is Your Motivation To Be Successful?

Think about this too. Personal growth takes commitment, goal setting and responsibility. But, for best results, you'll need to add a daily dose of the energizing "motivation" pill. After all, you can't just say, "I'm going to be successful" and expect it to happen automatically. You have to be motivated enough to make things happen.

Prescription For Success:

Take the "motivation" pill daily. Combine the forces of discontent with the power of hope. These positive and negative ingredients will help you get you almost anything you want in life. You'll be motivated to take action.

So, let me summarize and review. Discontent is often a prelude to success. However, wanting something is not enough. Hope is no replacement for action. Your motivation must be totally compelling if you are to conquer the obstacles that will test you in life. Success does come to those who are truly motivated and hunger for action!
