Where To Find Great Broadband Quality Music Videos & Internet Radio Stations For Free

By Jose Miguel Poza

So you are thinking of getting yourself a broadband connection or already have one and now want to find some cool free music videos and internet radio stations which are available at broadband quality for you to get the most out of your fat broadband pipe.

Well a great place to start looking for quality music videos is Lycos Free Music Videos which is at

<http://entertainment.lycos.com/music/videos.php>

(Alexa) where you can choose and watch a big selection of the latest music videos all for free as well as the not so easy to find, lesser known music videos. Lycos also have interesting band biographies and lots of picture galleries of your favorite artists for you to look at or download. They also have a music news section, a music download section and the latest music charts for you to catch up on.

Another great website for watching free music videos is Yahoo Free Music Videos which you can find at

<http://music.yahoo.com/musicvideos/default.asp>

(Alexa) where you can watch videos at 300k

broadband download speed or 100k if you prefer. If you watch them at 300k download speed, you can watch the video in full screen mode which is a nice touch. The Yahoo music video catalog covers thousand of music videos and many music styles including pop, rock, top 100, dance, rap, R&B and country. They also have album reviews, singles reviews, album charts, singles charts, live reviews, downloads and latest music news for you to enjoy for free. Yahoo also give you access to hundreds of free internet radio channels through their Launchcast radio service covering all possible music tastes.

You can download music videos from several music services online

You can download music videos from several music services online by Syd Johnson

Now that everyone can easily access free music files online, it was only a matter of time before people started looking for copies of their favorite free music videos. If you want to get free music videos you can try some of the streaming radio stations.

Many radio stations like Launch on yahoo are now expanding their range of services and offering mp3 downloads and music videos in addition to their streaming radio broadcasts.

You can also try to download music videos on many of the file sharing software applications on line. This is of course taking a risk because music video files are much larger than the mp3 songs that are being traded on the major file sharing networks.

In addition to longer download times, unless you get your downloads from a reputable source, you cannot be sure that there are no viruses or other malicious code attached to the file. In either cases, you can find lots of music videos online. Just log on to one of the music services, search for an artist and then enjoy the video downloads.

If you have a DVR on your computer, you can even write the videos to DVD players and that way you can pop them in and watch them on the TV. You can build your collection and not take up all the space on your computer hard drive.

The ranges of music videos that you can find will strongly mirror the range of popular songs that you can find in the online music catalogs. Right now, Pop/Rock, Hip Hop and Country music are the three biggest selling genres.

So, if you want to download music videos from an artist in any of these categories, you shouldn't have any problem finding them online. Also, the newer the videos, the higher the probability that you will find a copy online.
