Why Women Are Protected From Consensual Acts

By Jim Thio

When a woman stays in an abusive violent relationship, societies won't simply declare that it must be inconsensual and illegal.

Societies will ask the woman first whether she wants to stay or not. Yet when a woman happily chooses to share a rich smart male, be a prostitute or concubine, societies simply say that it's so bad it must be inconsensual, and it must be illegal.

When a woman gets stuck in a bad marriage with a violent, financially irresponsible male, societies do not say that it's because she must have ended up that way due to lack of better choices (which is really the case actually). However, when a woman gets paid a lot of money for becoming a nude model, or become a concubine for a rich smart male, societies simply presume that the woman is a "victim" and the reason why such women do that is due to lack of choice.

Also, why women are blamed for wanting to switch to other males?

If you go to a restaurant and you see other better restaurants, of course you move out. Of course better restaurants will attract more customers. Of course the other restaurants are not going to admit that their restaurant is worse. They'll simply say that you must have done something unethical or whatever.

It's all under our nose. None of those freedom restrictions are there to protect women. It's all there to ration them.

It's the same reason why many successful minority groups, like the Jews in Europe, the Chinese in Indonesia, the capitalists in US, are prosecuted. Because women prefer the rich and the smart.

The Jews are richer and smarter.

Envy is simply the preference to get rid superior competitors. That's why monks in China and Europe don't get married. So high IQ people don't make kids.

Why Women Are Protected From Consensual Acts

That's why education is the main way to control population. So the number of kids produced correlate negatively with IQ. That's also why child support laws demand money proportional to a man's wealth, to prevent rich males from making too many kids. And that's also why we have anti polygamy, anti prostitution, and anti free sex laws (in many countries).

And that's also why we have religions, to give faith-based justification for political decisions that many people really want but too ashamed to tell, extermination of those more capable than them.

That's also why Hitler was popular. And that's also why when you go to church, mosque, or any popular religion the first thing they taught is not "Thou shall not steal" but "Don't have free sex".

Freedom means competition. Some people are uncompetitive. So religious leaders get popularity by embracing prejudices all those uncompetitive people cherish.

When this comes up, Da Vinci Code will not look very significant.

You've heard all the debates between creationists, and those that support evolution theory. The public know just the scratch. The whole social structure will change.

Many have pointed this out. Yet people don't bother pointing out where evolution theory is. They are just going to come up with pretext to silence the scientific truth, whatever.

Well, Copernicus doesn't get believed in a day simply because he did the Math right doesn't he?

Jim Thio is a silver medalist in International Physics Olympiad. He's learning evolution theory to understand humans nature. He freely helps humans to be happier. He visions a better world where the productive make more kids and the parasites get more cash. His website is at

Woman-to-Woman, a Skin Care Guide

Due to the cycles in a woman's lifespan, her skin is different than a man's skin. Specifically, women have thinner skin than men which makes exposure to the sun critically more important to a woman.

Why Women Are Protected From Consensual Acts

Always use skin care products that have sunscreen at least SPF8 level. The skin on the arms, back, and legs should be protected whenever the skin is exposed to the sun. Typically, the critical hours are 10am until 4pm, however, the closer to the Equator, the more critical the SPF level and exposure time.

It is said that women are said to age more quickly than men and the sun exposure issue is a major factor. The sun's penetrating UVA rays on under protected skin allow the sun's penetrating UVA rays to more quickly and deeply damage a woman's thinner skin. As a result of western women's dress, melanoma develops on different body areas than men. Because fashion dictates, women often wear skirts, the most common site for serious skin issues is the lower legs. In men, melanoma is most commonly found on the back. To protect yourself from skin cancer, remember to cover all exposed skin at all times.

A woman's skin also tends to change color and texture with age; while sun exposure is responsible for many of these changes, others are caused by the dynamic hormonal variations that occur around and during menopause. The hormone estrogen is responsible for maintaining the bony framework beneath the skin and helps keep the skin soft and resilient and works to keep a vibrant, healthy facial complexion. The issue of hormone replacement therapy is front and center in the news today. The use of all-natural progesterone creams provides many or all of the benefits hormone replacement therapy does, however, with natural products and without many of the side effects. More information about natural progesterone replacement can be found at www.realprogesterone.com.

A woman's skin is the largest organ of the body. It functions as a barrier to prevent the intrusion of toxic substance, provides a first line of defense against bacterial, viral, and fungal organisms, acts as a thermostat in regulating body temperature and acts as a sensor for stimuli through touch. Great looking skin begins early in childhood but requires careful attention throughout life to guarantee beautiful, healthy skin as an adult. IH Distribution provides a complete, all-natural skin care line including makeup and sun screen with products that are developed in Switzerland for the spa industry and can be ordered at www.ihdistribution.com.
