

Writers: Top 10 Signs Your TV Interview Is Not Going So Hot!

This Free E-Book is brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!

Writers: Top 10 Signs Your TV Interview Is Not Going So Hot!

By Dr. Letitia S. Wright, D.C.

Writers: Top 10 Signs Your TV Interview Is Not Going So Hot! by Dr. Letitia S. Wright, D.C.

Writers: Top 10 Signs Your TV Interview Is Not Going So Hot!

By Dr. Letitia S. Wright, D.C.

Copyright 2005

When a writers book becomes hot or happens to be exactly what the TV show is talking about, the writer will be asked to be on the show.

Most writers do not bother to prepare for media because they know their material. They usually do not know how to make this an dynamic television interview which can increase sales and cause repeat appearance. These tips come from a television producer who loves authors and hopes to assist them in becoming exciting repeat guests for television.

10. You answer each question with a Yes or No answer. This is a nightmare for your host and producer. They immediately start looking for ways to end the interview.

9. You answer every question with "That information is in my book..."

Don't worry about giving away anything, except for the exact ending of a fictional plot, people need to hear about the book before they buy it.

8. You take long pauses to consider the questions before you answer them. Long pauses on radio and television are deadly and cause people to change the channel.

7. You ask the host on air if they have read your book. Sometimes hosts do not get a chance to read the materials sent to them. If you are on the show, someone has checked out your book enough to think you are a good choice. Don't embarrass people.

6. You sit there immobile while you answer questions. No one expects you to turn cartwheels, you have a microphone on and can't get up and move. But you do need to look like you are actually alive, it's TV, move your hands a little and change your facial expressions.

5. The studio can't find the book you sent them and you didn't bring any extras. It's a big studio, sometimes materials have to change hands a few times before you are ok'd as a guest. Always have a copy of your book with you, so they can show it on air. It also helps to bring a blow up of your book and an stand to place it on.

4. You answer questions with " Do I have enough time to go over this?" If they are asking you about it, you have enough time. They'll stop you if you run out of time.

3. The comments on something you are wearing and you have nothing to say about it. If a host says that's an interesting tie, they might have thought it was a prop to stimulate the conversation about your book. All props have a short story to go with them. Do not wear anything outrageous and not expect for it to be commented on unless you are Mathew Lesko. He always wears that jacket.

2. When the host asks you to tell them a about yourself and your background, you start with " I was born in a little town....."

They just want some basic current information about, not your entire life story. When you start talking about where you were born as background material, it brands you as an amateur.

1. Finding yourself commenting on things clearly off track of your subject. Sometimes the host can go down a rabbit trail, you have to take control of the interview and bring them back to your topic in a friendly gentle way that do not alienate their viewers. Remember, it's their show and you won't look good being a jerk to the host.

Dr. Letitia S. Wright, D.C. is the producer and host of The Wright Place TV Show and a 2004 Stevie Award Finalist. For a Free Report—5 Fast Ways to Get Your Book on TV email :
info1080-89555@autocontactor.com

Crazy Interview Questions

By Joel Vance

Copyright 2005 Joel Vance

If you want to get that amazing new job, you are first going to have to learn the answers to common job interview questions. The majority of the interview questions that you have thrown at you will be typical interview fare, but a company may decide to throw you a curve ball in the form of a crazy job interview question. This is starting to happen more and more, it is becoming quite a trend actually, so you need to take some time to learn what these interview questions might be so that you can answer them quickly and in a manner that leads to you getting the job.

There is a method to an employer's madness when they use an 'out of the ordinary' job interview question – and that's to get you thinking fast. In most cases the employer is testing you to see if you can think on your feet or if you are creative enough to work well in this job position. If the interviewer doesn't think you have what it takes because of your answers to the job interview questions, then you will not get the position.

Before you go into any job interview try to keep an open mind. Prep your imagination a bit to get it flowing freely just in case you get some of these crazy job interview questions asked of you. You can't afford to freeze up during an interview; because if you do, it is all over. So go in prepared, or at least as prepared as you can be.

Here are a few of the strange and yet rather common job interview questions that you may run across:

Q) If you were an animal what kind of animal would you choose to be?

Choose an animal that is efficient at everything that it does and one that is often very busy.

Q) What kind of fruit would you be?

You should choose a fruit that tastes good in a fruit salad along with many other fruits. This can be used to show that you are a team player who works well with others all of the time.

Q) What would be the very first thing that you would do if you won the lottery?

This is a gauge of your priorities. Whatever you do don't say you would quit your job.

Think about the answers to these sorts of job interview questions before you go into the interview. This way even if these particular interview questions don't get asked you will still have an idea of the types of answers that you should be giving.

Joel Vance is a Human Resources 17-year HR expert who's taught at 4 major universities around the country and currently has a best selling book on interview questions at

This Free E-Book has been brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!