

This Free E-Book is brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!

Your Endless Journey to More Abundant Life

By Andrei Yashurin

Your Endless Journey to More Abundant Life by Andrei Yashurin

There are two ways to gain knowledge about the world we live in (and I mean both physical and spiritual worlds). First is that we can believe in the things that are told to us. Second is that we can try to find answers on our own. Let us call people who prefer the first way "believers", and the second, "investigators". No person is a pure "believer" or a pure "investigator", because in our life we all combine those two approaches to gaining knowledge. Even the most skeptical of us don't question a number of things just because they have no time and no desire to prove them. And even the most convinced believers do have their own doubts over certain aspects of their life.

It is up to us whether we choose to be "believers" or "investigators". This decision is based on our priorities.

For example, it is better for those who are looking for certainty to become "believers" and not to ask too many questions. People of such a kind are more interested in traditional, Fundamentalist religions. Basically, they are good, trustworthy and reliable people, good spouses and citizens, highly acclaimed by their neighbors, and it is not my intention to put them down.

Are you looking for certainty above all else? My advise is this: find a church that you like the best (which depends on your personal preferences), and become its faithful member. Believe all things that you hear from a pulpit. Don't ask questions. Assume that your minister knows it all, anyway, he (she) spent so many years in seminary and in ministry.

Give him (her) your money in exchange for a dose of certainty every Sunday. If you will ever hear some people who don't agree with your church doctrine, have a pity for them, because they don't see the True Light. Be blessed, and be happy, for millions of godly people around the world are doing just the same. It is a way that they choose, and there are no reasons to condemn it. Actually, their religion may be a good one!

Your Endless Journey to More Abundant Life

However, if you think that such a lifestyle limits you and does not agree with your deepest desires, you can choose another way, and to become an "investigator".

People from this category are more interested in their own personal development rather than certainty. They act like true scientists, who are always willing to challenge their current knowledge of reality in order to gain more accurate knowledge. They like questions, because every question gives them an opportunity to rise higher in their understanding. They boldly face difficulties, because they are sure that life's problems make them stronger, wiser and more loving.

If we are looking for continuous personal development, let us be prepared to live in an uncertainty of new questions and new challenges. And if an outside world seems to be slow in bringing us new challenges, let us challenge ourselves!

Personally, I tend to be an "investigator". When I hear a statement that Christians should believe, or behave in such and such way, my first silent question is, "Really? Are there any other options?" My intention is not to be skeptical (as a matter of fact, skepticism often reminds me a religion), but to be flexible in mind. I don't want to be settled with a number of cliches. I don't want others to steal my joy of discovery, and I don't try to steal it from others.

I think that the Bible encourages, and not discourages seekers and investigators. "Seek, and you will find, knock, and it will be opened to you" (Matthew 7:7), said Jesus. However, what so many people fail to understand is that the process of seeking and finding is meant to be eternal. Our spiritual unfoldment is meant to be eternal. My opinion is that we cannot stop our search on "getting converted", finding "the true church" or "the true doctrine". God, the Reality of Being is infinitely higher than any church, any dogma or any person, even the most enlightened one.

I have a lifelong love affair with the Reality of Being.

Andrei Yashurin is a non-denominational minister, author, translator and an Internet publisher from Russia. His ministry in 2 languages reaches more than 3,000 people every month. He can be contacted at: yashurin.geo@yahoo.com<http://www.your-time-now.com>

Embracing Change

By Daniel N. Brown

Embracing Change by Daniel N. Brown

I love Jesse Duplantis! He is on TBN every Monday night and if I don't get a chance to tune in I'll tape his show and watch him later.

If you got a chance to see him the other night, you will recall he was talking about embracing change.

Most people that I know hate change. They despise it with a passion. Jesse says people hate change because they are insecure and they are afraid of themselves.

Your Endless Journey to More Abundant Life

Change is the only thing that is constant. It's gonna happen! The question is not even when? Things are always changing. Jesse says to embrace it. But not only that, but prepare for it. This way, you will be ahead of the curve instead of behind it.

Do you realize that if there is something in life that is stagnant, it's in the process of dying?

Question: What is the next step after ripe? Answer: Rotten. We are either moving forward in life or we are in the process of decay. Did you know the only difference between a rut and a grave is the dirt in your face?

If you truly want to enjoy the abundant and prosperous Christian life you must embrace change. Life is all about change and there is no escaping it.

Who wants to experience a life without a challenge anyway? Be honest. How bored would you be with nothing to strive toward? For me personally, I love change. I get bored easily with the same ole, same ole. Lord, give me something new!

I believe people are the most happy when they are working toward a goal. That's why it is said that success is not a destination to be reached. Success is the journey! And along the journey there will be change.

God wants you to prosper! But you will not prosper sitting around fearing the inevitable, which is "change." It's coming. Don't wait for it! Go after it before it comes after you! Be ahead of the curve instead of behind it. Seek change, expect it, prepare for it and prosper.

Daniel N. Brown is the publisher of the "Living the Abundant and Prosperous Christian Life" Newsletter. A free weekly publication that teaches how to live the abundant and prosperous Christian life. Receive a free copy of Dan's 14 page report entitled, "5 Biblical Keys to Outrageous Prosperity," when you sign up. www.secretplaceonline.com

This Free E-Book has been brought to you by Natural-Aging.com.

100% Effective Natural Hormone Treatment
Menopause, Andropause And Other Hormone Imbalances
Impair Healthy Healing In People Over The Age Of 30!